-Spectator Notes-

How did Louis Conlan's dog get his name? Well, the Conlan's little boy came home from school one day and talked at great length about his new friend Robert McGinnis. He talked about Robert Mc Ginnis very much - always refe rring to him by his full name. Then the Conlans got a fine shepherd dog. What to call him? They knew a good na me, although they didn't know the owner, so that called him Robert McGinnis.

This is probably all news to Bob McGinnis, local travel agent and father of Robert McGinnis who started the whole thing.

COUNTY TO GET SMOG CONTROL ORDINANCE

The latest letter by the Carmel Planning Commission to Board of Supervisors about an anti-smog ordinance has brought results. The sup ervisors have ordered an ordinance drafted which will control air pollution in the county.

The matter was first brought up by the Carmel Planners about two years ago. At that time the supervisors ordered velop before a contr ol ordinance was on the books, the drafting and enforcing of such a law would be made doubly difficult, the planners argued.

The supervisors evidently agree.

DR. WILLIAMS NAMED TO HOSPITAL BOARD

Dr. Jesse F. Williams of Carmel was appointed to the Board of Directors of Peninsula Community Hospital at the board meeting last Friday. Th e appointment of Dr. Wil liams, to be effective immediately, completes the board membership.

This group, of which Dr. Williams was one of the founders, was organized to familiarize local residents with their schools and school problems.

TRAVELER FEEL UN VITAL TO PEACE

The United N ations is a beach head for peace, according to Willard J. Rand of Woodland, who recently returned from a tour of Europe. Speaking before the Carmel Rotray Club, Rand explained his views gained through discussions with lea ders of European nations as well as UN officials.

His observation, Rand said, led him to believe that Europeans living close to the Iron Curtain were less concerned with the threat of Russia than are the Americans. He said those people realize the danger, but feel the best course of action is to concentrate on their own problems of rebuilding their communities and their nations' economies.

GOLDEN BOUGH RE-OPENS TONIGHT

Twice razed by mysterious fires in its 28 years' existence, Carmel's famed Golden Bough Playhouse reopens tonight in an ultramodern $108,000 structure, built on the ashes of the 1949 blaze that leveled the old showplace.

Wednesday, the long-awaited event was he ralded by a press and stockholders party in the just-completed theater. This was followed Thursday by an invitational preview for Monterey Peninsula civic leaders, as well as Fort Ord and Naval Postgraudate School officials and the builders.

A special performance by the Monterey County Symphony playing Edward Grieg's "Dedication March" highlighted the opening preview. Formal opening to the public tonight will start showing of imported and special interest films as a regular feature. By early November, the curtain will rise on two simultaneous stage productions, a double bill of legitimate drama hailing the Golden Bough's Phoenix-like restoration. Thereafter plays will be alternate on the 40-foot main stage with motion pictures, resuming a dual attraction that distinguished the theater since its establishment by Ted Kuster in 1924.

Still managed by Kuster, but now owned by stock-holding patrons as a community venture, the new Golden Bough is an unique combination of two playhouses in one. On a floor below the main stage is an arena type space for theater in the round productions. Here the audience sits in C-shaped tiers around an oval stage. As in night club floor shows, performers are viewed from allsides and without scenery.

MONARCH BUTTERFLIES BANDED THIS YEAR

The Butterfly Festival held in Pacific Grove, tomorrow, October 25th, takes on an added significance this year due to the important experiment conducted by the Roy al Ontario Museum of Zoology and Paleontology of Toronto, Canada, under the direction of F.A. Urguhart, PhD.

For the first time, thousands of Monarch butterflies (the only true migratory insect known to man) will be banded in different sections of C anada before their annual wonder-hop to the Pacific Grove butterfly trees. The banding, it is hoped, will help solve the "mystery of the Monarchs." The mysterious Monarch migrates from Alaska and Canada annually as an adult - the time of the migration is the Fall season. It flies thousands of miles to Pacific Grove, where it honeymoons until early Spring, then it returns to its birthp lace to die, depositing eggs enroute and at its final destination. There is a theory afoot that even the east coast Monarchs migrate along the Gulf States and then come to Pacific Grove also. This theory is partially borne out by the fact that thousands of Monarchs fly to Pacific Grove from Southern California as well as from Alaska an d Candada. Also, the Pacific Grove butterfly trees are the only trees in the world where the Monarchs spend the entire winter.

Another mystery concerning the Monarchs is how they get here. Migratory birds and fish live long enough to accompany their young along the migratory route. But this is not so of the Monarch - the millions of Monarchs that come to Pacific Grove each fall are at least three generations removed from the ones that made the trip the year before.

The Monarchs' flight routes and their reason for coming here are two of the many questions science hopes to unravel by this remarkable experiment.

The Monarchs are banded with white pap er on which is printed a serial number to denote at which locale the butterfly was released, a nd the address of the R oyal Museum of Zoology and Paleontology. The white paper will stand out clearly against the brilliantly orange-hued wings of the Monarch. The banding i s done by pasting a band over a small hole punched just be hind the costal vein, near the chest. This does not inte rfere with the butterflies' flight.

Robert G. Wind, of Pacific Grove, famed entomologist and owner of one of the largest private collections of butterflies in the world, will mark the butterflies here for their return trip north. In his opinion, which is shared by many others, the Monarch butterfly is trul y an amazing butterfly. Besides being the only true migratory insect known to man, it is the only butterfly to have more than one brood of young a year. It has the greatest flying endurance of any butterfly and it has no enemies, due to its childhood diet of milkweed.

The Monarch is a true North American butterfly - but it has spread itself all over the world.

MRS. VIRGINIA Carr of Carmel announced the engagement this week of her daughter, Cynthia, to Richard Perkins, son of Mrs. William H. Perkins of Bay City, Michigan. The couple will be married November 22. Cynthia is a graduate of Carmel High Sc ho ol and attended Connecticut College for Women a nd the University of California.

An Editorial-

One contest in the November 4 election stands out as being the most important in the day-to-day conduct of affairs for Monterey Peninsula residents- It is the election of a county supervisor from this district - District Five.

The incumbent, Andy Jacobsen, has done an outstanding job representing this area on the county board. Through his position as chairman, a post he has held for the past 18 years, he is able to give this area far more than just one vote out of five.

Nowhere is this more apparent than in the division of county road funds. Although supposed to be allocated among the districts on the basis of road mileage, Jacobsen has been able to get his district far more than its share by cooperating with the other supervisors. It takes a man much respected by his fellow board members to get such concessions - the roads in their districts aren't perfect either.

Jacobsen has been a leader in the fight to keep the tax rate low. The success of this fight can be judged when our tax rate is compared with the rest of the state - we are the fourth lowest. And this county does not lack services. The low tax rate is the result of efficient management, not tailoring the budget to fit a predetermined tax rate.

That the board, under Jacobsen's leadership, is alert to save money wherever it can has been recently demonstrated in the Seaside sewage disposal plant. There the board purchased an inexpensive plant site which made unnecessary the elaborate pumping system called for in preliminary plans. This move saved the sanitation district some $50,000.

As to the talk that this district should be split to give us more representation on the board, state law provides for only five supervisors. Redistricting takes a two-thirds vote of the supervisors. Obviously another supervisor would not vote his district into oblivion.

The value of Jacobsen's knowledge and experience cannot be over-rated -and it would take another man years to gain it. At the same time it is questionable whether the Peninsula would enjoy the advantages of having its representative sit as chairman if Jacobsen were replaced.

We urge that Andy Jacobsen be returned to the board of supervisors.

What's new with the MASON'S ?

What with our taking over Balzer's Department Store, we're kind of new ourselves - -but only in this particular store. Having been regular visitors to Carmel, we do feel like old residents.

Dr. Gray calls us two of his satisfied customers, he having married us at the Church of the Wayfarer in 1948. (Oscar Balzer, incidentally was best man at the wedding –aside from having been Margaret's first boss back in - - well, we won't mention the date.

A lot of Carmel friends have been in to wish us well. To list their names would almost require the entire paper, but we do want them to know how we feel.

We also appreciate the good wishes of our many manufacturer friends. After all, we have quite a few; Margaret having been with the H.C. Capwell Co. in Oakland for 17 years and I with the Emporium-Capwell Co. for 18 years. (During the past year, as general manager of Franklin Simon's Atlanta branch, I picked up a few more.) With the experience of more than forty New York buying trips, we should be able to get some pretty nice merchandise for you.

All this is to tell you that we're glad to be in Carmel, and that we want to run the kind of a store you think you should have.

We feel mighty lucky to have the opportunity of trying to follow in Oscar's and Margie Lou's footsteps. If we stray, we hope you'll tell us. And if we get something you particularly like, we hope you will tell us that, too, so that we can get more of the same.

There are no policy changes- - you'll still find Florence and Kay here to help you.

In the meantime, if you haven't already done so, drop in so that we may get better acquainted. The Mason's (formerly Balzer's) are, as you know, on the east side of Dolores, between fifth and sixth. Phone Carmel 7-3836.

Wonderful Way to Start the Day!

Well, there he goes, backing out into the challenge of an October morning—and there's no denying that he's off to a wonderful start.

You see, he's at the wheel of a Golden Anniversary Cadillac—and there's no greater lift to the spirits than the deep-throated whisper of a Cadillac engine.

It says inspiring things to the man at the wheel.

It tells him, first of all, that life must have gone rather nicely—to take him from where he was—to a place where he owns and enjoys a beautiful Cadillac. Pretty good precedent for a good day today!

It tells him, too—that wherever he drives in the day's activities—the Cadillac crest will pave the way for the respect of the people he encounters.

Yes—he feels pretty good as he turns into the highway, touches his toe to the sensitive throttle, and heads into the adventure of another day.

The miles go softly by . . . the occasional tick-tick of the electric clock reminds him that he's ahead of time for his first appointment . . . and he settles back—relaxed and at ease. Nice, nice going!

Many men have told us that the drive to work in a Cadillac is the finest part of the day. Their heads are clear and their minds at ease as they roll serenely along—a wonderful time to think and plan.

Of course, this is only an extra value that comes with a Cadillac: comes in addition to comfort and safety—and dependability and long life—and all the other wonderful things that make this magnificent car the Standard of the World.

Why not come in and see us—and arrange to enjoy them all yourself?

We'd be happy to see you—any time.

Vincent Barletta, the genial and chipper distributor of the Chronicle and The Spectator in the Carmel area, is a native Californian, born and raised in San Francisco.

Breadwinning, for Vince, began with an Exa miner paper route in Baghdad by the Bay, a job that developed with the years from a carriership into an office job as district manager. He stayed at this until a brief hiatus when he was, for six months, a bartender. This interval all had to do with Vince's taking a vacation. . . some papers going undelivered, great confusion, and a brief cooling off period, at the end of which Vince went back to the Examiner.

In 1940, Vince switched allegiances and employment, transferring to the Chroncile and moving to Napa as county circulation manager. From there he moved to Sacramento as a distributor. The job of country distributor for a daily is a contractorship in which the dealer buys the papers and arranges for their sale, both on stands and by home delivery. It is his job to estimate how many of a given issue will be bought, and to meet the demand. If he guesses wrong, he's left with a little excess reading matter.

In 1943, Vince went into the Merchant Marine as engineer on a Liberty Ship. Asked what he knows about engineering, Vince replied, "Not a thing." His boat was a supply ship plying the South Pacific between Honolulu, New Guinea, and the Hebrides. Asked if the ship got into any trouble, Vince answered with a reminiscent grin, "Not due to the war."

In 1948, Vince returned to the Chronicle, as city supervisor in charge of all carriers and drivers in the city. It was this same year that he met his wife, the very pretty "Smoky." Introduced at a Cal-Stanford game in the fall, they were married in January. Smoky had been a teller in the San Francisco Bank, and was a Minnesota girl originally.

Frequent visitors to Carmel, the Barlettas decided after a year longer in the big city to wangle the agency here if possible. Vince bought it in 1949, and they came here to live.

There are two small Barlettas, Andrea who is two, and a brand new daughter, Barbara Ann, who arrived two months ago.

Vince's new green delivery wagon is much in evidence on the streets of Carmel, up the Valley and down the Coast. Less is seen of Smoky, who is busy tending the young fry, but Vince's breezy greetings—an impartial "Hiya, honey," for the ladies, and an equally affable, but less affectionate greeting for the men are heard just about everywhere. Either one is always welcome.

CAL-VET MONTH NOW

California's 2,000,000 ex-service men and women have one of their f inest opportunities during October to learn about the rights and benefits available to them andtheir families through California's veterans' program, Calude Estill, Veterans' Service Officer, pointed out recently.

"The annual observance of Cal-Vet Month" is being sponsored by veterans' groups throughout California this month, to direct the a ttention of all citizens to the benefits our entire state derives from its programs for veterans and dependents," the service officer declared.

He listed these benefits among the state-administered entitlements which he said have given California "an outstanding national reputation" in assistance to veterans: The famed non tax supported farm and home purc hase plan through which more than 59,000 California veterans have purchased homes and farms on low inter-

Ever stop to think why train travel—and especially S. P. Pullman travel—is such a restful, relaxing and satisfying way of going places? Actually there are lots of reasons—some big, some small. Mostly it's because everything is done so smoothly and unobtrusively for your comfort and pleasure.

What other mode of travel gives you all this? Full-length beds with full-size sheets and blankets; a private room of your own, if you wish, with its own private lavatory facilities; air-cooling and air-conditioning; a friendly porter to give you prompt and attentive service day or night; complimentary shoe shines; ice water at your finger tips; delicious Dining Car meals, courteously served; a Lounge Car for refreshing beverages, magazines, newspapers and congenial traveling companions.

For overnight or longer trips—whether along the Coast or to the East—Southern Pacific streamliners provide the very finest of modern Pullman accommodations. Try them for your next trip. They are the last word in luxury travel.

THERE'S MORE TO S. P., TOO! S. P. is a road to remember for your freight shipments. We have more miles of lines serving more Western cities and towns than any other railroad. For fast, efficient, dependable freight service — whether carload or l.c.l. — call our nearest agent.

BRAMBLETT'S ALWAYS ON THE JOB...

"DEAR CONGRESSMAN:

I have been forced to cancel invitations to Monterey and San Luis Obispo in order to fulfill the wishes of the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign organization.

I am, therefore, expressing to you my sincere hope that the voters of your district will again have the good judgement to return you to Congress where you have been one of the hardest working members of the House of Representatives.

It is not your temperament to seek public acclaim for your work, or to make a big noise about the countless things you do for the benefit of your constituents, but you are always on the job, doing splendid work.

With every good wish for your continued success, and kindest personal regards,

Wonder How Miss Gilbert Is in "Histery"?

By now I guess you've heard about the spelling errors in the kids' report cards this week.

A typical card looked like this:

Arithmetic.....B
Geography.....B–
Spelling.....C
Grammer.....B

I don't know if Miss Gilbert, the principal, actually wrote those cards, but she took full responsibility. This morning I hear she got up in the Assembly Hall—before all the students—and started writing GRAMMAR with two "a's" on the blackboard 100 times!

From where I sit, I'll bet this makes her even more popular with the students. It's nice to see an expert admit she occasionally makes a mistake. Too many so-called "experts" claim they're never wrong on such subjects as what you or I ought to eat . . . what we should wear . . . whether we should enjoy beer or buttermilk. A really wise person never claims to "know all the answers" all the time.

The Amateur Gardener

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

The ideal time to plant shrubs, roses, vines and trees is from November to April. Most plants are dormant at that time and, if planted during the rainy season, they will have become established for Spring growth.

It is important to know the nature of the new shrubs and trees, whether they like cool shade, partial shade or full sun; next, how tall and wide do they grow, and whether they fit into the design or purpose. Some plants do not thrive well in the coastal areas –such as oleander and hibiscus. It is wise to consult your local nurseryman for advice and suggestions. He is eager to assist you in a successful planting. If the amateur gardener is not sure of the correct methods of planting, then it is best to have the nurseryman do the planting. It would, in the end, be more economical. At the same time, watch how he does it and learn through his experience.

Plants are sold with bare roots, in tin containers, and balled with burlap.

Plants that shed their leaves are usually sold with bare roots. They should never be allowed to become dry; either heel them in moist soil or set the roots in a bucket of water. for several hours. Any broken or bruised roots should be cut back to a healthy stem. It is a good practice to prune back the top of the shrub about one-third. This balances the root system with the body of the plant.

HOW TO PLANT SHRUBS:

Preparation for planting any shrub should be thorough. Dig a much larger hole than the ball or root system requires –at least twice as large, and as deep as it is wide. The topsoil is placed to one side and the subsoil on a nother pile. Break up the bottom of the hole with a pitch.fork or pick. A post hole digger is a wonderful intrument to use, es pecially if the subsoil is clay. Fill bottom of the hole with well rotted manure or compost and leaf mold, mixed well with the soil in the bottom of the hole. The top soil is replaced and then place the bare roots on top and gently work the top soil around the spreading roots. The plant is set the same depth as it grew in the nursery. Firm the soil around the base and over the roots by tamping the surface with the ball of the foot. Leave a basin around the trunk about 6 inches deep; fill the basin several times with water so that the ground is thoroughly soaked. Water regularly all newly planted material.

The braod leafed evergreens usually come in tin containers and the confiers are balled in burlap. Dig the same generous hole and fill the bottom with good soil. If it is atin container cut the opposite sides of the tin and then pull apart. Lift the cake of soil gently and place it on top of the filled in soil. Replace the top soil, leaving a basin, and water. The water will settle the soil around the cake and eliminate any air pockets.

The burlap balled plants are set into the hole, shovel in some more top soil, and then cut the strings and roll down the burlap under the plant. Fill in the remainder of the good soil and then tamp if down firmly; but leave a basin for watering. The burlap will soon rot away and the roots will start their work.

Shade loving plants require an acid soil, so it is advisable to add more leaf mold and peat moss around the roots. The evergreens should be sprayed with water during dry spells. Vines and climbing plants may be planted close to a wall, but shrubs and evergreens will thrive better if they have free circulation of air and sunshine.

INTERESTING SHRUBS:

Strawberry bush, Mock Orange Virginal, Pittosporum, Spirea Bridal Wreath, Persian Lilac, Butterfli Bush, Japanese Quince, Spanish Broom, Pyracanthus and Plumbago. There are many others which are beautiful and thrive in this area. The local nurserymen know the habits of plants and they will explain the advantages of using many shrubs that we have not listed.

Azaleas, rhododendrons, and camellias should be set slightly higher above the soil surface so that water cannot stand at the base. Peat moss should be added to the leaf mold in the proportion of three parts peat moss to one part leaf mold. The roots must be kep moist but never too wet. They require good drainage and a few hours of morning sun. They do not thrive well against a wall as the reflected heat often causes leaves and buds to fall prematurely. The best fertilizers are super-acid phosphate, R.A.C., and Ortho.gro. They should not be used until the plants show growth of new leaves.

The amateur should not try these plants until he has had more gardening experience. It is disheartening to have failures and experience acquired with other plants will soon show the way.

In Carmel, where plants grow the year around, it seems wise to select only the evergreen plants of the broad leafed varieties and just a few conifers.

Taxes Cost MORE Than Food!

A new estimate of how high tax collections have actually risen has been issued by the National Industrial Conference Board.

In the past the expenditures for taxes have run well below those for food.

During the war this changed: taxes then moved above food, and have since stayed above.

The soaring tax load of 1952 carried the estimated total fifty per cent higher than the food total!

Taxes exceed by even wider margins the expenditures for clothing, housing, house operation and transportation.

Unfortunately, the average family does not recognize this fact in its budget, because less than one-half of the tax is paid directly in the form of income, sales and property taxes.

The major, or "hidden" portion is paid by business, in many different taxes that tend to be passed on to the purchaser in his cost of living, without his being aware of it.

The politicians find it easier to levy taxes upon business than upon individuals. But business firms act for the most part as collecting agents and the consumer pays the added tax as part of the increased purchase price.

Taxes must in the last analysis be borne by the people, who now pay more for being governed and defended than for eating!
